The Board is scheduled to visit the Academy on Tuesday, April 7th, through Friday, April 10th. It acts as official representative of the United States Senate with the responsibility of reviewing the curriculum of the Academy, its entrance requirements, and of conducting a physical inspection of buildings and equipment. LOOK FOR THE LABEL WHEN BUYING ALFALFA SEED

LARAMIE—If you are buying alfalfa seed this year, be sure to look for the label on each sack of seed.

This advice comes from F. A. Chisholm, extension agronomist with the University of Wyoming. "Seed bears the Wyoming Certification tags," he says, "it is insurance of purity, high germination and adaptability."

Supplies of certified alfalfa seed are at an all time high this year. Chisholm says the price is set to encourage the use of only the best. Only varieties that are winter hardy, free from weeds, and high yielding are certified—providing germination is high. Thus growers can rest assured that their crops will not fail because of cheap, unadapted seed and the introduction of noxious weeds.

Chisholm warns farmers to beware of non-certified seed being sold as Ranger, Buffalo, and Atlantic alfalfa varieties, saying these can result only in disappointment.

PRIVATE PAPERS OF THE LATE B. B. BROOKS GIVEN TO UNIVERSITY

The public and private papers of the late Bryant B. Brooks, governor of Wyoming from 1905 to 1911, have been given the University of Wyoming archives and western history library, according to Dean Krakel, University archivist.

The decision to place and preserve the extensive and valuable collection at the University was made last week by Mrs. Jean Brooks Lathrop, daughter of Governor Brooks, after consultation with Mr. Krakel while the latter was in Casper.

A number of manuscripts of principal addresses given by the Governor make up the first division of the collection. Among the manuscript titles are "Starting A Cattle Ranch," "Menace of Federal Control," "The Public and Industrial Relations," "Government and Decision," "Livestock," and many others that will be of importance to researchers and those studying political, social, and economic history. Pictures and photographs are also included in the collection, one of the most complete on file in the library.

R. S. BENNETTS HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH WHEN CAR HIT AN ICY SPOT ON HIGHWAY WEST, EVANSTON

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Bennett and daughter, Jackie, had a miraculous escape from death last Saturday morning a few miles west of Evanston, while enroute to Salt Lake city, when their Mercury sedan skidded on an icy place on the highway in a snow storm and went out of control going over a steep embankment and rolled over several times. Mr. Bennett was quite badly bruised and cut, and Jackie received a bad cut on one of her lower limbs, but Mrs. Bennett was badly shaken up but no lacerations.

They were taken to the Evanston Memorial hospital and treated for shock and wounds, and later on arrival of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fear, were brought home.

Mrs. Bennett stated that had it not been for that miraculously good steel body to hold them together that it might have been a different story.

All are recovering very nicely from the ordeal.

OFFER WATCHES, TRIPS, BONDS, SCHOLARSHIPS AS AWARDS IN 4-H PROGRAMS

Three national 4-H awards relating to conservation, beautification and insect control in rural areas have been approved by the State Club office for member participation in 1953. The programs are conducted under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service, and award donors are 4-H Soil and Water Conservation, Firestone Beautification of Home Grounds, Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen and Entomology, Hercules Powder Company.

Incentives for outstanding records of achievement comprise medals of honor for county winners and 17-jewel watches to the state winners in all three programs. In Entomology and Soil-and-Water Conservation, sectional winners are given all-expense trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next November, and national winners receive $300 college scholarships. In Beautification of Home Grounds program, there are no sectional awards, but national winners receive trips to the 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

Additional awards in Soil-and-Water Conservation are a $25 Defense Bond to the state winner in the Junior Division, and in the Demonstration phase of the program the state winning individual demonstrator and the two members of the state winning team each receive a fountain pen and pencil set.

Achievement figures for 1952 show that 140,000 4-H boys and girls beautified their farmsteads, and 192,000 club members received training in soil and water conservation practices. About 60,000 members participated in wildlife and nature study activities, including entomology.

Wyoming Farm Bureau Delegates hear Secretary Benson Outline His Views

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson recently told Farm Bureau delegates from seven western states that the Department of Agriculture has "no pet programs." He described the Department as a service unit for the agricultural industry and the country and said its main function is to carry out policies by Congress.

Secretary Benson said he would like to trim the U. S. Department of Agriculture in size to make it an effective and efficient operating unit. "We are not empire builders," he emphasized.

From the mail and editorials from all parts of the nation, Secretary Benson said he had concluded that the people out in the country want a sound farm program in which farmers have more of a chance to stand on their own two feet. He said that the government cannot guarantee everyone a profit without entering into a socialist economy.

Secretary Benson said he believed in a full discussion of the issues by farmers reaching to the township level.

"I have no fear of the outcome if we get the facts before the people. There is a great safety in a well-informed citizenry," Secretary Benson added.

"You can make a vital contribution by giving thoughtful and prayerful consideration to the many problems which we face. You can and have been helpful through your organizations. We don't have all the answers in the Department. That is why we have called in advisory committees representing all segments of the industry," the Secretary asserted.

Secretary Benson said he had reviewed the Farm Bureau pro-

SHELTERBELT TREE PLANTING IN HIGH GEAR LAST YEAR

LARAMIE—Wyoming farmers and ranchers set another record for the year ending June 30, 1952, according to G. H. Brigham, assistant director of the agricultural experiment station, and W. O. Edmondson, extension forester, both of the University of Wyoming. State foresters and other national agencies report a total of 522,935 acres planted in that year. This was an increase of 66,567 acres more than the 1951 figure and 3,694 acres better than the previous record set in 1940.

In Wyoming 420 acres of federal lands were planted during that period besides 2 acres in towns, counties, and public-school land and 724 acres in private lands. Altogether these figures add up to 1,145 acres planted in forest and shelterbelt trees in one year.

With 11,999 acres so planted in all previous years since the Clarke-McNary program got under way in 1927, the combined total for Wyoming is 12,145 acres.

Further breakdown for Wyoming figures shows that in 1952 233,000 seedlings and 46,000 transplants were distributed under the federal act. Inclusion of non-program stock with the federal program brought Wyoming's total plantings to 343,000.

CATTLE JOLTED ON HUGE EUNGS LAMBS HIGHER

Exceptionally large cattle run at Omaha and Chicago Monday—20,000 head at the two points and the bulk of that total slaughter steers, yearlings and heifers—took the starch out of trade. The fat cattle market at Omaha was unevenly steady to mostly 25-50c lower, instances off more, and low in the trading session clearance was incomplete.

Most sales of slaughter steers and yearlings ranged from $19 to $22.50, with better steers to $23.50; 1408-pounders to $23.25. Best heifers were a part load of 935-pounders at $22.25. Plain killers sold down to $16. Scattered early sales of cows were strong but bulk looked steady to 25c lower, canners and cutters $12-$13.50, beef cows to $15. Bologna bulls sold to $17.50, odd-head $18.50, beef bulls to $15.50, "rem" to $16.50, and veal calves to $26.

Stocker and feeder trade was unevenly steady to 50c lower. Feeder steers ranged from $17-$22, there were stock steers to $23.50, and steer calves to $24.50 and $25.50, heifer calves to $22.50.

Butcher hogs sold steady to 25c lower, top 350 off, 180-360-pounders $18.25-$21.25. Sows sold steady, 300-550-pounders $17.50 - $19.50. Stags brot $14.50 to $17.

A sheep run of 11,500 Monday provided the margin that gave Omaha top rank in total livestock supply, and at the same time the big sheep run fared well.

Fatlambs sold 50c higher, humping top to a 4-month high of $23.75, and there were few under $23. Shorn lambs with No. 2 pelts sold at $21.75, and topky fall clips hit $22.75. Slaughter ewes sold steady, $8 to $10.50. Replacement sheep and lambs sold steady to 50c higher, bulk $21.50-$22. A few good to choice solid-mouth breeding ewes brot $12-$14.50.
