

Ban-the-Bullet Petition Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — While Congress considers legislation to impose new handgun controls, the Consumer Product Safety Commission is moving ahead on a related issue that it says could virtually ban the weapons in America.

DOROTHY KELLNER
League president

Its five commissioners, under federal court order, begin deliberations Monday on a petition to ban handgun bullets as a hazardous substance.

If the agency outlaws pistol bullets, the commission has said, "the practical effect ... would be a virtual ban on handguns," a prohibition unlikely to be enacted by Congress this session.

Some long guns also would be affected, firearms experts assert, because bullets for some handgun callers are identical to those for rifles and could be interchangeable.

The petition does not seek to ban cartridges, it is aimed only at bullets, the small lead projectiles. Casings, primers and powder are not under consideration.

This back-door approach to ban handguns by outlawing pistol bullets is the idea of the Chicago-based Committee for Handgun Control, founded by four suburban mothers. They say they got the idea from the National Rifle Association.

"Guns without bullets are not dangerous. The bullets are actually taken from the bodies of those who are killed or injured with handguns," the committee has written the safety commission.

The committee says its efforts to ban bullets stems from an inability to obtain federal gun control legislation.

The movement has generated more mail to the commission than any other subject, including products dangerous to infants and children. The ban is opposed by the National Rifle Association.

Susan Sullivan, a founder and president of the Chicago organization, said the idea for the bullet ban came from an article in an NHA magazine expressing concern that the commission might feel it had the authority to outlaw pistol bullets as hazardous substances.

"There was the NRA fussing about the federal government being able to outlaw the sale of ammunition under a loophole in the Hazardous Substances Act. We figured that if the NRA was nervous about it, we really ought to look into it," she said.

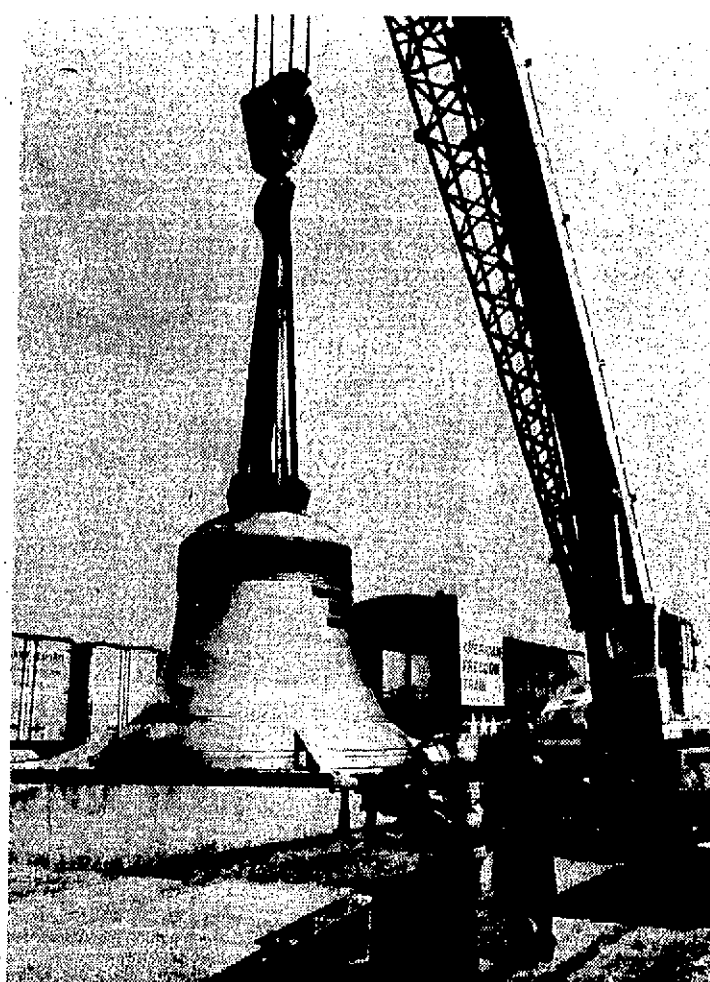

3 Held On Robbery Charge

Pasadena Police reported the arrest of two brothers and their cousin on suspicion of strongarm robbery Saturday after a woman was struck in the face and robbed of her purse.

Lynn A. Gallo, 23, of Dearborn Street, Pasadena, told officers she was confronted by three males as she and a friend were walking in her neighborhood early Saturday. One of the males reportedly struck her, took her purse and fled with his companions toward a "low rider" car.

After hearing the police broadcast of the description of the car and suspects, Sgt. Jerry Ferguson stopped a vehicle near the scene of the alleged crime, police said.

Arrested were Pasadena's Richmond Franklin III, 18, of Summit Avenue, a 16-year-old residing at the same address and a 17-year-old residing on Howard Street, police reported.

FREEDOM BELL — Workmen prepare to load the Freedom Bell onto a showcase car of the American Freedom Train. The bell, a gift of the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary, will travel with the non-profit American Freedom Train through 80 cities in its 21-month bicentennial journey.

American Freedom Train Starts Trip Around U. S.

Two hundred years of history will be viewed by Americans during a 21-month, 17,000 mile journey of the American Freedom Train that will highlight bicentennial programs in some 80 cities across the country this year and next.

The train, which started its journey in Delaware, is expected to be visited by millions, young and old, who will tour the train to view some 500 historical documents and memorabilia of American history.

The opening ceremonies of the exhibit featured a round robin telephone call to Gov. Sherman W. Tribbitt of Delaware from governors of the 48 contiguous states, with each speaking briefly from his state capitol building.

"The American Freedom Train is a dramatic montage of American history," Jon Foust, president of the American Freedom Train Foundation, Inc., said. "The multi-media presentation is arrayed throughout 10 cars — each one depicting an aspect of the country's 200 years of progress."

Original historical documents — such as George Washington's personal copy of the Constitution and Benjamin Franklin's draft of the Articles of Confederation — are mingled with rare artifacts, gathered from public and private collections in 36 states and Puerto Rico. These include the first Bible printed in the United States, a moon rock and the tape-recorded sounds of a moon landing and Jamie Wyeth's portrait of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Two showcase cars feature such items as a lunar rover and the Freedom Bell, a double-scale model of the Liberty Bell. The Freedom Bell was donated by the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary on behalf of the nation's children.

Youth Gets Crime Blame

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Crime on the street, 9 out of 10 times, is committed by young punks," says 75-year-old Eric Hoffer.

Hoffer was one of the witnesses appearing before a group of 10 western mayors Friday to discuss urban problems.

"Most of the victims are old and they are ignored and forgotten," Hoffer said, reading from penciled notes. "I know of houses in the city that are robbed regularly once a year, like the coming of the tax collector."

"We must shake up the majority. I propose an organization of victims," he said. "This will activate the majority." He suggested that elderly city dwellers be equipped with walkie talkies.

600 Jobs Will Open For Youths Pasadena To Provide Work

The City of Pasadena will make available approximately 600 summer jobs for economically disadvantaged Pasadena youths between the ages of 14 and 18.

According to Booker T. McClain, youth services coordinator for the Manpower Division of Pasadena's Department of Human Services, planning is now in progress for the employment program employees, with the jobs to be funded under Title I of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). The pay is expected to be $2.30 per hour.

Said McClain, "Agencies wishing to make requests for summer youth employment program enrollees should call city hall manpower offices at 577-4075 and proposal forms will be mailed. These proposals will be available as of Monday, and the deadline for their return is May 9."

McClain said the city estimates approximately 100 youth people will be involved again this year in the annual ZIP Program, an effort aimed at environmental quality control including neighborhood cleanup.

"In addition, we plan to place approximately 500 youths in non-profit agencies throughout the city, including the city itself, the school district, YMCA, the Boys' Club and a number of other agencies," added McClain.

Recruiting will take place at the city's four high schools including John Muir, Pasadena, Foothill and Blair High Schools and there will be no hiring during the last week in May. He added that students who are interested in possible employment under the program and do not have their Social Security cards should make every effort to obtain them before the summer employment program begins.

OXNARD (AP) — A Reseda man was crushed beneath his pickup truck while launching a boat Saturday and drowned when the vehicle pinned him in the water as the tide came in, Ventura County sheriff's deputies said.

Raymond Peck, 55, apparently died from a combination of a crushed chest and drowning, the coroner's office said.

Deputies said Peck got out of the truck when something went wrong with the vehicle while launching a boat and he crawled underneath to check it. They said the truck's brakes slipped, the vehicle rolled back and trapped him at the water's edge with an incoming tide.

Do you know what's happening at Casa Dorinda?

Casa Dorinda is a continuing-care retirement residence now under construction in Montecito, one of the most charming and delightful communities in California.

For decades, visitors sought out Santa Barbara resorts; many stayed to build mansions. One of those was Anna Dorinda Bliss. Her magnificent 85-room home is the center of a project where residents, age 62 and over, will live independently in their own apartments or cottages, share the handsomely restored first floor rooms of the mansion, be served three meals a day in a new hotel-style dining room and enjoy weekly maid service, a full program of activities, transportation and one of the most comprehensive health and medical programs available anywhere.

Virtually all physicians' and surgeons' costs are covered without deductibles or time limitations — as well as the total costs of hospital, nursing, convalescent and rehabilitation care — for life. A 47-bed medical facility is on the premises.

We open in May and already half the apartments have been reserved. Is it any wonder so many residents from the Santa Barbara area have decided to make Casa Dorinda their home? You can live free from worry caused by financial reverses, illness or loneliness.

Casa Dorinda is not a condominium. You do not buy real estate, you pre-pay services through an Entry Fee and a Monthly Fee based on operational costs at the time.

Now, three beautiful model apartments are open daily from 9 to 5 at the Information Center on the grounds of the 48-acre estate. Take 101 to Olive Mill Road exit, just south of Santa Barbara, drive east to the intersection of Hot Springs Road. For more information, or an appointment, please call or write.
