REDLANDS, Oct. 13.—The big red apple will be crowned king in the Yucaipa Valley, the largest apple-producing section in the south, when the annual Apple Festival of the valley is held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Apple pie a la mode will vie with good old apple cider, with apple dumplings, apple sauce, apple pudding and such things for side dishes.

Lauren Hale, a Yucaipa school-boy, won the prize in the Yucaipa song contest conducted by the festival association, the words of the song being:

"Bring your Big Red Apples, boys;
We'll have another show;
Show the people where it is the Big Red Apples grow;
Show them all our products here,
tha: everyone may know
All about the Valley of Yucaipa."

CHORUS

"Hurrah! hurrah! Yucaipa is our home Hurrah! hurrah! from at we'll never roam,
And so we sing the chorus just to let the people know
All about the Valley of Yucaipa."

"We have peaches, pears and plums, and apricots galore; Grapes and figs and nectarines and other things in store;
What gives us our 'rep,' you know,
we told you once before,
Is the Big Red Apple of Yucaipa."

The big three-pole tent which will house the exhibits is now up and the placing of the exhibits will begin tomorrow. There will be booths for the sale of Yucaipa products, a play will be given by the club women in the clubhouse and they will also serve the famous dinners which are such a prominent part of the festival.
